

Daniela Janceski, CEBS

Director of Benefits
Graham Healthcare Group
Troy, Michigan

Daniela Janceski is the director of benefits at Graham Healthcare Group and is responsible for strategic initiatives, administration, and compliance of both the health and retirement plans. Previously, she was the director of benefit administration for the Michigan Conference of Teamsters Welfare Fund as well as the administrative manager of the Ohio Conference of Teamsters & Industry Health and Welfare Fund, the Teamsters Ohio Contractors Association Health and Welfare Fund, and the Ohio Teamsters Apprenticeship and Journeyman Training Fund. Daniela began her career in employee benefits with the Michigan UFCW Unions and Employers Health and Welfare Fund, when she eventually served as the chief executive officer and plan administrator, overseeing the day-to-day operations and administering third-party health benefits to more than 9,000 plan participants. For the last 20 years, Janceski has identified and implemented many technical solutions to streamline the administration of benefits. As a plan administrator, she has been the driving force toward initiatives in cost-containment strategies, disease management, wellness, education and participant engagement. Janceski served on the International Foundation Health Care Management Committee and currently serves on the Administrators Committee. She obtained her Certified Employee Benefit Specialist® (CEBS®) designation from the International Foundation and the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania. Janceski graduated from the University of Michigan with a bachelor of arts and science degree in communication and public relations. She then went on to attain a master's degree in information systems from the University of Phoenix.
