

Nicolaus Solecki

Research Analyst, Asset Allocations
Marquette Associates, Inc.
Chicago, Illinois

Nicolaus Solecki is an asset allocations research analyst for Marquette Associates, joining the firm in 2021. He works with consultants, client analysts, and the director of research on asset allocation studies, stress testing, macroeconomic research, and digital assets research. Prior to joining Marquette, Nic was a business development manager at Ford Credit and previously held several positions in financial operations, credit analysis, and executive strategy. He served in the United States Marine Corps infantry from 2009 through 2013 with expeditionary and combat deployments. As part of the 1st Battalion, 7th Marine Regiment, he deployed to Afghanistan in 2012 as a foreign military advisor team and infantry squad leader. Nic holds a B.S. degree in international economic relations from Cracow University of Economics and a B.A. degree in international relations from Grand Valley State University. He also earned the Certificate in Blockchain and Digital Assets from the Digital Assets Council of Financial Professionals (DACFP), where he is an active member.